

Figure S5: Trunk radial profile of the real (a) and imaginary (b) relative permittivity (unitless) in L-band of red spruce at the Montmorency site in Québec. The winter data were always collected well below freezing point. The green data (March 8) corresponds to a short winter thaw event where air temperature went above 0°C during daytime.