Interactive comment on “CCC-based muon telescope for examination of natural caves” by L. Oláh et al.

Received and published: 25 November 2012

The paper is interesting and describes clearly the technical characteristics of a portable cosmic muon detector for geophysical applications. Its performances, evaluated in several tests made in laboratory and in some caves, are exhaustively reported and discussed with some details.

The paper should be published without important corrections. I suggest some stylistic/linguistic improvements only.
